

“ HG Technology moved our on-premise SharePoint system dating back to 2010 to the cloud. Providing expertise and advice along the way and a great new interface for our users. Not only was this completed on time, but below budget. ”

Covent Garden Market Authority

New Covent Garden Market Authority (CGMA) is London's original and finest fresh fruit, vegetable and flower wholesale market. Covent Garden dates back to at least the 1200's when Monks from the Abbey of Westminster grew their fruits and vegetables. A lot has changed since then! Not only is Covent Garden now South of the river in Nine Elms, there is also more technology involved in the business.

HG Technology worked with CGMA to move their old local SharePoint system which was sitting on a server in their office, to Office 365 and SharePoint online. The server was end of life, so this gave CGMA an opportunity to improve functionality provided by the online system as well as move documents and data. CGMA as part of this have implemented a new intranet with improved corporate communication to staff, this pulls external feeds from Twitter as well as internal communiques.

The five-step process of discover, define, design, deliver and review has resulted in a smooth transition from the old system to the new and also added enhanced working methods including tagging of documents rather than folders and quick links to key documents and data.
